Chair's Report

2020 was the most extraordinary year in every sense. It was costly. Of course, the Covid-19 pandemic had severe implications for our income but it was the restrictions on our usual activities that we felt most grievously. Through the decades we have adapted, refocussed and reenergised our approach. The pandemic has given us the opportunity to do all that afresh, with diligence and creativity, and we are now beginning to move forward into the next phase in Leeds Church Institute's history with hope and with confidence as we continue in faithful learning and in effective engagement with the vibrant and diverse communities that make up our City

The Reverend Canon
Sam Corley

Report on Activities

2020 got off to a strong start with the publication of our poetry anthology, a well-attended launch event for the Leeds Lent Prayer Diary, several smaller book-based events, the completion of the second phase of research into ecumenical mission and the start of the 2020 Arts and Theology Bursary.

With the start of the national Lockdown on 23 March 2020, all work and planning for the charity changed effectively overnight. The initial response was to adapt to home working for staff and to transfer all events and media online. Leeds Church Institute also began new initiatives addressing the Covid-19 situation in terms of beginning research into Church Leaders' responses to the pandemic and appointing a Poet Theologian in Virtual Residence to write weekly blogs for the website commenting on the impact of Lockdown on the communities of Leeds using poetry as a medium for reflection.

As the year rolled on it became apparent that things would not be returning to 'normal' in either the short or medium term. During the second half of 2020, therefore, Leeds Church Institute began to reflect on its mission and ways of working at a deeper level acknowledging both the losses that Covid-19 has brought but also the innovation and opportunities too.

Report on Activities

Our commitment to furthering learning around climate change began with events on ethical fashion and Carbon Conversations, and developed into our own real time learning about the environmental impact of Lockdown and sustainability for the future. This learning has impacted our understandings of mission and its practical implementation in terms of property management.

Our work around Seeking Refuge began with ‘Musicultural Conversations’ at a local community centre for those learning English as a second language which then became online sessions. We hosted the Asylum in Art Exhibition on a reduced scale at Leeds Church Institute but also virtually on the website. We published a booklet by a local writer, Refugee Realities and Church Art, held a virtual launch, and sold and distributed 250 copies.

CITYtheology, the Leeds Church Institute magazine, was published four times. The first two editions of 2020 were published in electronic format only due to the impact of staff homeworking. The second two were in printed format and sent to members and local libraries. All four editions are lodged with the British Library. In these ways, Leeds Church Institute developed a hybrid approach combining online and in situ events, digital and printed media, real and virtual exhibitions that will be continued in the future as a way to reach a wider range of people, be more environmentally aware and be sustainable in varying and sometimes adverse conditions.

City Engagement

Leeds Church Institute entered the fourth year of its partnership with Leeds Citizens with a focus on building leadership in faith communities and reflecting on economic, spiritual, religious and social life in Leeds. Work was carried out city-wide around mental health action and in the South Leeds area around developing community voice and action. The Community Organiser, Becky Howcroft, has written a series of reflections on the work of Citizens for the Leeds Church Institute website and CITYtheology.

Leeds Church Institute continues to be a levy-paying member of Leeds Business Improvement District and a partner in Leeds Lit Fest.

Learning Centre

From January to mid March 2020, the Learning Centre and Study Centre enabled Leeds Church Institute to sustain a culture of hospitality, support various learning activities in the city, ensure Leeds Church Institute had a profile in the city and a source of contacts for city engagement. Due to Covid-19 restrictions these closed in mid-March and did not re-open in 2020. Leeds Church Institute Council decided in November 2020, not to seek to re-open the Learning Centre judging it to be too great a risk to the current and future charitable work of the Charity. Council began to look at varying options for restructuring the work and premises of Leeds Church Institute, with decisions to be made in 2021. The process is guided by sustainability, being responsive to change and the wider environment, and re-invigorating commitment to the promotion of religion and education as in our charity objectives.

Financials

2020 did not go as anyone expected. For many years, LCI has benefitted from income earned from office rental and the conferencing service as part of its Learning Centre which operated through LCI Trading Ltd. Demand for those services in 2020 plummeted due to the pandemic which greatly reduced income. In addition, a proportion of the costs of running the building and staff costs related to conferencing have always been recharged to LCI Trading Ltd. The expenditure recharged reduced from £131,000 in 2019 to only £28,000 in 2020. Thirdly, while in 2019, the trading company was able to gift aid £34,000 of its surplus to the charity, in 2020 nothing was available to gift aid. These are the key reasons why the deficit of the charity increased from £27,000 to £163,000 in 2020.

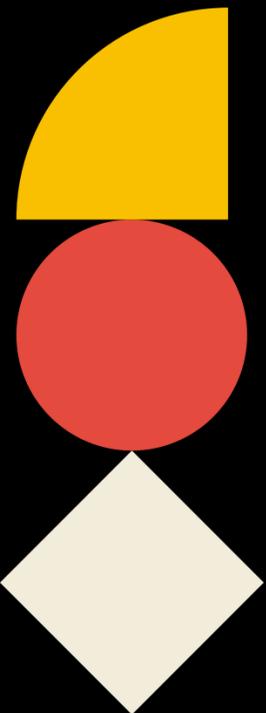

Thanks to CCLA's careful management of our invested funds, LCI investments gained in value by £289,000 in 2020. This offset the deficit described above and meant LCI carried forward increased funds compared to 2019.

What occurred during 2020 created many discussions about the future of LCI and in November, LCI Council made the difficult decision to close the Learning Centre and sadly had to make a member of staff redundant. It is hoped that LCI is now in a good position to focus on its core mission and can continue to serve our city well throughout 2021 and the future.

For further information, the annual accounts are available on the Charity Commission website.
